MAN HELD ON $5,000 BOND

Activities Characterized As Unmitigated Crime. Admits Raising Fund.

A man has the legal right to test the constitutionality of any law during wartime or any other time; but he must obey that law in the meantime. Commissioner Joseph A. Craft said yesterday in regard to holding Pete Kauffman, a wealthy farmer of the Bardstown road, near Fern Creek to the October Federal grand jury under $5,000 bond on the charge of interfering with the draft.

By circulating a petition for funds to test the law and using a copy of the Jeffersonian to obtain subscriptions, Kauffman undoubtedly interfered with the operation of the law. The Jeffersonian which he carried to induce the farmers in his locality to donate contained statements against the draft and has been denied the mails by the Government.

Commissioner Craft characterized the defendant's activity in wartime as an "unmitigated crime." He fixed the bond at $5,000, although Assistant Federal District Attorney S. Merrill Russell requested only a small sum in view of the fact that he was within his rights in soliciting funds.

Kauffman, who was not represented by counsel, pleaded guilty to the charge of circulating the petition, with the explanation that he had never heard that the law had already been held constitutional by a lower court, and he thought it within his rights. He denied having talked to anyone, even his three sons, who were drafted against the law. Kauffman said he had been unable to secure his regular lawyer. He was released on bond furnished by L. C. Fryer, a neighbor.

J. H. McCullough, a rural mail carrier, testified that the defendant had asked him to contribute to the fund on one occasion, but he declined. He said that he had never heard of Kauffman seeking to obstruct the draft in any other way.

2 CENT DROP

In The Price Of Coal!

At last that long looked for drop in the price of COAL has come. I am now selling my Best Lump Coal at 14 cents at the car. This will be a saving to you of 2 cents on the bushel.

As I see it, I believe it would be a good idea to begin at once to lay in your winter's supply, as it is going to be harder to get than it was last year.

Remember that my yards are still at the same place. I have increased my yard room and will do my best to have plenty of coal at all times.

Yours For Better Coal

MAURIE NUNN THE COAL MAN.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

ADDI'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MARY GRAHAM RONNER

ROBINS' RETURN.

"This way, this way," chirped the first robin of the season.

"Where?" chirped the others.

"Over here," said the leader, whose name was Reddy, because his mother had said that he had quite the reddest red-breast of all the birds. Of course they all knew that it was simply his mother's pride, for they all had extremely red coats, but still they had always called this robin Reddy.

He was not concealed as one might have thought. Instead he was very popular and was usually chosen as the leader.

"Over here," he kept repeating. And all the robins followed.

"What a nice new spring carpet!" they said. "So fresh and new and bright. There is no carpet quite so nice as a green grass one—except perhaps to have a moss one. But no, they all came to the conclusion after quite a little bit of talking. "No, the green grass one is better than any other."

"What good taste the people in the big white house show," said Reddy Robin.

"What makes you say that?" asked the other robins.

"Because," said Reddy, "they always live here and see that the grass carpet is perfect each year. They fix it up in the fall just about the time we are going for our winter trip and then when the grass begins to grow the earth is rich and fine. They have improved it—which means they have helped it."

"Isn't that splendid of them?" said the others.

"Yes," said Reddy, as he gobbled a worm. "This is also a good carpet for worms. There are plenty to be found in the lining—or rather in the earth. It always seems like a carpet-lining to me."

"Yes," agreed the others. They had all found some worms and were having a gay old time. They chirped and chattered about their winter and their trip back to the same green lawn. Some of them were new and to these the older ones related their experiences in this summer home."

"There are always enough worms," they said. "And if a dry season comes we need not be afraid as they water their lawn with a wonderful hose! Oh, it's a beautiful summer home."

"And there is a nice boy who lives in the big white house," said Reddy, "who gives us basins for our baths and our drinks of water if a dry season comes."

"This home is like a dream-home," said the new robins.

"Yes," said the old robins, "it is just like a dream-home except that it is a real home. It is a home of dreams which have come true."

"Oh," cried the little boy who lived in the big white house near the lawn, "the robins have come. Spring is here! The robins! Hurrah!"

"Do you hear that?" asked Reddy. "Isn't that fine!" They hopped about the lawn and were very happy. "Oh the wonderful carpet of grass! So soft and cool and fresh! And the beautiful sunshine! The soft wind and breeze! The air and the trees! And the spring!" These little speeches they were making in bird talk—and they were chirping for all they were worth.

"I am thinking," said Reddy. "What are you thinking?" asked the other robins.

"I am thinking," continued Reddy, "that we should give a concert to the people of the big house who give us this glorious new carpet—or who look after the carpet so it will be in perfect condition, and to the little boy who is so glad to see us back!"

"Fine," chirped the rest of the robins. "When shall we have it?"

"What is the matter with now?" asked Reddy.

"Nothing," they all said.

So every little robin stuck out his chest and there burst forth from everyone a song so glorious that everyone around stood:

"Spring has come! The robins are singing! And how happy they are—the little dears!"

And oh, how glad the robins were that spring had come and that they were welcome back in their old summer home!

Looked Like It

The sitting room carpet was being taken up preparatory to housecleaning, and little Dorothy, aged three, was watching the operation with a great deal of childish curiosity and interest. Taking up carpets evidently was something new to her infantile mind. Finally, after some hard thinking on the subject, she looked up at her mother and said:

"Mamma, is you goin' to let the floor go barefooted?"

An apple seed that had lodged in her ear four years ago was dislodged yesterday by Ruth Sanders, 12 year-old daughter of Mr. Peter Sanders, of Farley street in Mecanburg. The seed was deeply imbedded in the ear and had become petrified. The girl had experienced no discomfort during the four years. When 8 years old she was playing when the seed in some way lodged in her ear. During a fit of coughing yesterday it dropped out.—Paducah Sun.

HAWAIIANS SEEK DEATH IN LAVA

Fanatics Attempt to Make Sacrifice to Pele, the Goddess of Fire.

LED BY SCHOOL GIRL

Twenty-Six Persons Begin Trip Up the Lava-Encrusted Slopes, but Exhaustion Thwarts Their Purpose.

Honolulu, — Twenty-six Hawaiians, led by a fourteen-year-old schoolgirl, sought to fling themselves into the boiling lava of Kilauea crater on the recent anniversary of King Kalakaua the Great. The fanatics were attempting to make a human sacrifice to Pele, the goddess of fire. Their plans were frustrated when they fell exhausted on the mountaintop after the long journey toward the volcano.

The pilgrimage was started from Hookeka, Hawaii, by old men and women, children and even infants in arms, all unprovided with food and water and scantily clad. The blazing sun of the lava-encrusted slopes overcame the pilgrims after a day and a night of continuous traveling, and they were found by A. R. Gasper, who operates an automobile stage around the island from Hilo to Kona.

Vision Revealed to Girl.

The schoolgirl, Kameau by name, had recently made an appeal to the people of Hookeka telling them of a vision that had been revealed to her in a dream. She said that the spirit of the goddess Pele had come to her and told of the destruction that was to visit the islands on the king's anniversary.

Every living being was to be destroyed, she said, except one man and one woman. All of the islands were to be destroyed except two and they were to be joined together into one. The destruction was to be wrought through an eruption of Mount Kameau and nothing.

AS WE GROW OLD

The Kidneys Should Receive Help. Marion People Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

The constant strain of life is hard on the kidneys, and in later years

The kidneys call for help. Old backs often ache, day in, day out; Urinary ills frequently add their weight of woe. Give the help the kidneys need. Add the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Marion people endorse this remedy. T. C. Guess, E. Depot St., Marion, says: "I have found Doan's Kidney Pills a splendid remedy for kidney weakness. For a long time I have been subject to backaches and at these times, my back is stiff and sore. The kidney secretions pass too frequently so that I can hardly get any sleep at night. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I get at Haynes & Taylor's drug store, never fail to give me relief and I wouldn't be without them. I think they are a fine medicine for old people."

Price 60 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Guess uses. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Submarine Net Caught a Ship.

After workmen with saws and chisels had broken up the anti-submarine net which guards the entrance to the Norfork harbor, the steamer Kershaw, of the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Company, which was caught in it, was freed. Several divers assisted in the work of cutting the net. A thorough examination of the vessel was made at Norfork and it was found uninjured and it was able to continue to Boston.—Baltimore Sun.

To Rent.

I have seventy acres of good land for corn and tobacco to rent, lease for two years, to one renter, either white or colored, who owns teams and tools sufficient to work it all. Let me hear from you at once. A. H. Cardin, Marion, Ky., R 2, Box 38.

Crew Ten Days In Boat After Ship Is Destroyed.

Honolulu, Aug. 4—After 10 days spent in open boats, the captain and sixteen men of the bark P. P. Ritchie landed yesterday on the island of Kauai, reporting that their vessel had been destroyed by fire seventeen days out of Honolulu for San Francisco. The ship was 900 miles from any port when the crew, after a fruitless attempt to save her, were forced to take to the boats.

The bark was valued at $400, 000 and her cargo at $260, 000. She was owned by the Matson Navigation Company, of San Francisco. The ship was 900 miles from any port when the crew, after a fruitless attempt to save her, were forced to take to the boats.

Here is the schoolboy of the not far distant future. If measures now pending before parliament finally come to be made into law pupils in arithmetic will not be forced to cudge their brains over the awkward and unfamiliar "l-s-d" of English money, for that system will be superseded by the simpler and more rational decimal plan known to Americans. Instead of "dollar" the unit will be called "florin," but it will consist of 100 cents. Five-florin pieces will circulate instead of the sovereign, with ten-florin pieces to match our "eagle," while half and quarter florins will lead the way down to dimes, nickels and cent-pieces. A commission has reported in favor of the change and the question is dividing attention with the war and Ireland for public debate, says Omaha Bee. One of the strongest arguments against the move is that it will upset the present system of accounting and one objector calls attention to the fact that all the adding machines in use will have to be rebuilt. If the war has jolted John Bull out of his adhesion to the antiquated monetary system to which he has clung so persistently we may look for the readjustment of almost any of the ancient and honorable British institutions. However, the measure is not yet a law.

The May fire loss in the United States and Canada amounted to $24,000,000, which is ten millions more than the May fire loss a year ago and thirteen and a half millions more than in May fire loss in 1915. This year's aggregate so far is ominously large—$120,109,455, compared with $113,529,920 for the first five months of last year and $81,407,050 for the corresponding period of the year before. This year's May fire loss was swelled by a conflagration—the calamity at Atlanta—but that accounts for only five millions, so that even if it were out of the reckoning May, 1917, would figure as a bad month for fires.

The report of the World's Pathological congress that "green peas are dangerous in the extreme, especially to women, whom they make frivolous, capricious, and reckless," is worthy of just as much respect as the declaration by the same congress that potatoes should be eaten by judges and editors, as they develop great mental balance and calmness of reflection, while carrots cure bad tempers, and a persistent eating of them will cure jealousy, melancholy, feelings of wrath, and revenge.

It is one of the paradoxes of war that the men who do the fighting and the killing have less hate than those who stay at home and do the talking. The fighting man realizes that the fellows in the trenches over against him are the same sort of humans as himself; and that they are fighting for the same reason that he is, in the belief that it is a patriotic duty to fight.

As for a field name for our soldiers in Europe, if "Sammy" does not stick, "Johnnie Yank" might do. In the Civil war the Northern soldier was "Yank" to the Southerners, and the Southerner was "Johnnie Reb" to the Northerner. A combination would dignify the unity that now exists.

A Berlin military critic says that the British fighting on the front is serious. Even this mild way of putting it is a great admission for the Germans who are beginning to stop talk of the invincibility of their lines and the glorious victories of their troops.

The German press is charged with deliberately falsifying reports and boasting of mythical successes, but it should be commended for its moderation in not stating to the general population that the crown prince has established his headquarters in Paris.

The privations caused by the war are on the increase. The price of diamonds is about to go up, and with the engagement ring shedding much of its gorgoness there will be a rift in love's young dream.

The eagle says the slogan of Pershing's soldiers is, "Can the Kaiser?" That's the stuff, boys, but don't omit the first essential, which is to catch him.

The circulation of money per capita is now $45.80, but it's circulating so fast that it's hard to grab any of it unless you are mighty quick.

When the cruel war is over the old fashioned sea serpent and the giant gooseberry will again ask for midsummer recognition.

Very likely a good many pacifists make their wives sleep on the front side of the bed.

This is surely warfare as is made when our army in France is given an ice plant.

Man With Arm and Leg Gone Rescues Young Woman From Drowning.

New York.—The loss of his left arm and left leg did not prevent Luder Gagne, Jr., of Boston, from being an expert swimmer or from saving Miss Louise King of Winchester, Mass., from drowning at Revere Beach last summer and eventually winning her for his bride.

When twelve years old, just half his present age, Gagne's swimming and diving records were considered marvellous. Then he fell beneath the wheels of a train and lost a leg and an arm. After his wounds had healed, and although Boston Harbor was full of whitecaps and storm signals were set, he swam without trouble to Boston Light, six miles out.

Gagne was talking to a lifeguard at Revere Beach last summer when cries for help came from the water. A girl was struggling a considerable distance from shore. Gagne reached the girl first; she was Miss King.

Gagne and Miss King became engaged. Her parents favored the match, but advised the young couple to wait until Louise was twenty-one. They vetoed the suggestion, however, and were married here by Deputy City Clerk Cruise in the Municipal building chapel.

The bride is twenty.

MARS FIRST AID TO CUPID

Couple Parted by Parents Are Re-united in Marriage When Man Becomes Officer.

Gates Mills, O.—The whole world loves a fighter—not a lover. That's the way the adage goes now. Second Lieut. Charles S. Bailey of the Ohio Field Artillery and Adelle Schimunk, eighteen, daughter of Robert J. Schimunk, motor magnate, have found it out.

Two years ago the young folks, very much in love with each other, defied stern parents and were married in the office of a justice of the peace. The parents, however, were not to be outdone. They had the marriage annulled and broke a couple of hearts for the time being.

But since that time Bailey has been graduated from Ohio University and has been made an officer in the artillery and he's going away to France, and that changes things. They have been married again. The first affair was rather lonely and only two witnesses besides the contracting parties were present. The second event was one of the social events of the season in this little city.

LIKES JAIL SO MUCH HE'S GOING TO STAY

Hackensack, N. J.—Ten months ago George Wilkins of Englewood started a term in the Bergen county jail for embezzlement of funds from the Englewood Golf club.

During the ten months George has achieved things, to wit: Won admiration by songs, helped tabulate election votes, conducted Christmas reception, captivated reformers by his "sweet manners." Widespread was George's fame and plots were hatched to wean him away from Sheriff Cuarter, but George liked his surroundings so much he refused to leave. And now that his term is up he is going to remain where he is—as the sheriff's confidential clerk.

Hogs of Red, White and Blue. Hutchinson, Kan.—One Hutchinson swine raiser, L. E. Griffith, is patriotic to the limit. All of his hogs are red, white and blue. He has Duroc Reds, Chester Whites and new breed of blue hogs, known to breeders as the Sapphires. Griffith, who is nicknamed "Red" for obvious reasons, declares there is nothing blue about him, although he is shipping in corn at $1.65 a bushel to feed to his red, white and blue hogs.

THAT'S NEWS.

With apologies to th Argus, averted by compunction, which threatened to destroy public opinion, and is likely to be healed without leaving any serious scar. The Chinese have had their taste of civil war, and are in no mood for another experience. The militarists and the southern constitutionalists are each extending olive branches, and the election of a new parliament will doubtless put an end to their troubles. But if China is averse to civil war, she is unquestionably eager for participation in the war against Germany. The constitutionalists, who see in a German triumph the downfall of constitutional democracy throughout the world, are as strong for war as are the leaders of the military party, says Cleveland Plain Dealer. If there is any antiwar party in China its numbers are small. The trouble at Peking arose largely because of the desire of each party to assume responsibility for the conduct of the war. The parliament resented any attempt to act without its authorization while the anti-parliamentarians sought to put the responsibility in the hands of a military clique.

Plans alone won't win the war, but there is satisfaction in the reflection that all our war plans have been big, two-flighted plans, unhesitatingly adopted, says Philadelphia Press. When we set about filling a war chest we poured $2,000,000,000 into it as a first installment. When we set about raising an army we enrolled about 10,000,000 young men from which to choose. Red Cross necessity presented itself, and so we raised more than a hundred million dollars for that in a single week. About shipbuilding we have been a bit slow in starting, but before long we shall have that project working on a liberal and comprehensive scale. That is the American way.

"War will never be outgrown until women take a greater part in all human life and processes," was the conclusion reached by Charlotte Perkins Gilman in her discussion of the general subject of "War and the World Hope." Mrs. Gilman reasoned that because the life of the world is dominated in great part by men, and because it is the natural masculine instinct to fight for the pure love of fighting, our humanity is a fighting humanity, says Springfield Republican. The human processes of life have been denied to women, and, therefore, women retard the development of the world.

In many cities Baby Welfare leagues are being formed to take care of the country's babies while their fathers are in the army. "In every war of history the babies have suffered neglect. The people of America are determined that this shall not occur now. The food and the discipline of the children will be looked after to the end that the babies of the war period may be as perfect as those of any other time in our history.

At first there was a bit of tremor in the thought of sending men to France. But the welcome accorded our vanguard and the enthusiasm for the cause aroused by those Americans in the midst of a people fighting for existence and for civilization, is certain to set burning in the heart of every red-blooded young American the desire to get over and be in the thick of the excitement.

A statistician reports that the purchasing price of money is declining so that a dollar was equivalent to 47.6 cents in April, compared with 48.7 cents in March and 50.3 in February. We defy him to figure out how long it will be before a dollar is worth nothing.

A plea made in defense by the traffickers in the necessities of life in this crisis is that they are human. But the men who make the greatest sacrifices for their country and their fellow-men are human also.

Uncle Sam has bought 200,000 wind-proof shirts for his bluejackets. A wind-proof shirt may be fine for blue jackets, but a laundry-proof shirt would find a bigger market.

All we have to do to deal with the spy effectively is to study Germany's method of dealing with those found within her own borders.

The amount of butter fat in the city's milk supply may be slipping somewhat, but the price is holding up good and strong.

"Do not despise prunes," says a writer on food topics. "They are nourishing." They have nourished the jokers, sunbathers for years.

Inventors with schemes that will really put the submarine out of business need not fear the competition.

Hail doesn't take a town until he is prepared to hold it. It is a system that saves bother.

Why you want Cardui, the woman's tonic, for your troubles, have been shown in thousands of letters from actual users of this medicine, who speak from personal experience. If the results obtained by other women for so many years have been so uniformly good, why not give Cardui a trial?

Beloit, Wis., Aug 18.—After 100 citizens of Clinton and Avallon, Rock county, had searched for a day for two children of Alfred Yandry, the father found them in a cupboard of a deserted house near his home. Willie aged 5 years, was dead. Beatrice, the little 3-year-old sister, was asleep on a shelf where a crack in the door had given her air. A spring lock had fastened them in.

Draft Machinery Put In Hands Of Authorities.

Washington, Sept. 5.—With the master list of Friday's conscription drawing in the mail for distribution to the local boards, the task of assembling the national army of a half million men had passed out of the hands of the federal government last night and into those of the civilian authorities, who will notify the men drawn and pass upon their exemptions.

As soon as the lists are received each board will summon for physical examination double the number of men in the district quota. If more are needed the authorities will keep on calling until the quota is filled.

The final list shows the few errors made in the unofficial report already transmitted throughout the country by the press including all adjustments found necessary in correcting the official list to make up for the numbers that were read upside down such as 6996, which could be read upside down at 9969, or those numbers which were misread. Also all errors in transcription. In the rush of drawing and the haste to get the figures to the wires there were less than two score variations between the list compiled by the Associated Press and the official master sheet.

Logan Sheriff Held Over To Federal Court.

Russellville, Ky., Sept. 5.—Sheriff James S. Taylor, of Logan county, charged with violating section six of the selective draft law in aiding and assisting others to evade military service and in violation of section three of the espionage act in obstructing the enlistment and recruiting service of the Federal government, was given an examining trial yesterday and was bound over by United States Commissioner G. S. Hardy in bonds of $5,000 to await the action of the Federal grand jury which will meet in Bowling Green the second Monday in December. Bond in the required amount was given by the defendant. Sheriff Taylor was recently removed by Gov. Stanley from the County Exemption Board.

For Jailer W. E. Belt.

I am not solitary while I read and write, though nobody is with me.—Emerson.

The Constitution of the United States is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men at all times and under all times and under all circumstances.—Supreme Court, Milligan case.

The Noblest Public Virtue.

That patriotism which, catching its inspirations from the immortal God and leaving at an immeasurable distance below all lesser, groveling, personal interests and feelings, animates and prompts to deeds of self-sacrifice, of valor, of devotion and of death itself, that is public virtue that is the noblest, the sublimest of all public virtues.

Henry Clay.

No matter who you are, where you are, or how old you are, it is your duty to save money.

Are you rich now? You may become poor if you don't save.

Are you poor? You may become rich if you save money and invest it wisely.

If you already have capital, economy will preserve it for you in times of greater need. If you have none, you can acquire it by the same means.

Your whole mind need not be set continually and exclusively upon the pursuit of wealth. There are other things in life as desirable as making money.

Nevertheless, it is right for you to be as careful of your expenditures as you can be without being miserly or close.

Youth is emphatically the time to begin to save, but it is never too late to start.

Indeed, the main object of saving in early life is not so much the actual amount saved, but it is the foundation of the habit of economy.

The Morning.

I never thought that Adam had much advantage of us from having seen the world while it was new. The manifestations of the power of God, like his mercies, are new every morning, and fresh every evening. We see as fine risings of the sun as ever Adam saw, and its risings are as much a miracle now as they were in his day, and I think a good deal more, because it is now a part of the miracle, that for thousands and thousands of years he has come to his appointed time without the variation of a millionth part of a second. Adam could not tell how this might be.

I know the morning, I am acquainted with it, and I love it, fresh and sweet as it is, a daily new creation, to new adoration, and bringing, new enjoyments, and new gratitude.—Daniel Webster.

J. T. Ash, blacksmith, Creek, other witnesses for the prosecution, gave evidence that Kauffman had circulated the petition with the explanation that he wanted to test the constitutionality of the law. Questioned by Mr. Russell, the witnesses stated that the prisoner said nothing about wanting to fight the draft law.

Mr. Russell contended that such action as pursued by the defendant would indirectly interfere with the operations of the military forces of the country. He emphasized the importance of putting a stop to the many propagandas of this nature.

Commissioner Craft said he questioned whether the defendant was entirely ignorant of wrongdoing, in view of the fact that Kauffman possessed sufficient intelligence to acquire a goodly amount of worldly possessions.

John Martin was arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Washington. He declared after his arrest that he had collected between $25 and $30. He said he did not remember the names of those who had contributed. The man gave about half a dozen names, said.—Courier Journal, Louisville, Aug. 28th.

Short Home Visits.

Indiana, Ind., Oct. 5.—The first training camp for candidates for the Officers Reserve Corps at Fort Benjamin Harrison formally ended yesterday. The camp was practically deserted by the students, although there are several thousand soldiers and officers still in training at the fort. Preparations are being completed rapidly for the second reserve officers' camp, which opens August 27.

The hundreds of students at the first camp who were given commissions made practically all their preparations for leaving yesterday. Those who were unsuccessful left the camp several days ago. The men who were awarded commissions today left for their homes in Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana, and completed their arrangements to report for duty at the places to which they have been ordered. Most of the new officers have a leave of twelve days in which to visit relatives and friends and make necessary business arrangements.

About 6,000 young men enrolled in the camp when it opened three months ago, but only about 3,000 remained at the close of the training period.

J. S. G. Green.

Att'y Trice and Judge C. S. Dunn and a unanimous vote, of appreciation and thanks, was tendered to Messrs. Roberts and Wilson.

The affair was delightful, and the menu the best which Marion people know, means par excellence. One guest was heard to say, "John Wilson and his wife sure do know how to fix good things to eat." But this was putting it mildly, as was shown by the enthusiasm with which the epicures replenished their platters. Some of the side dishes were prepared by Mrs. John Wilson. Null said.

Among those who motored over to enjoy the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. James Henry, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carnahan, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Blue, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Orme, J. J. Clement and daughter, Miss Marian, Sam Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. The food served was of the best quality, and the entertainment, including the events are at the most notable given recently in this section and are long to be remembered.

An Island Screen For Canal.

America's purchase of the Danish West Indies was very opportune, for it means that there is now a semi-circle of islands, stretching from the coast of Mexico to Trinidad, which forms a perfect screen for the Panama canal. Including Cuba, each of the islands is in the hands of one of the allies, with the exception of Haiti, and even this may be closed as friendly. It will now be quite impossible for a navigator to reach the Panama canal from the Atlantic without passing within fifty miles of allied territory.—London Chronicle.

Clark also plotted to destroy the remainder of the plant, to blow up the Panama canal, to wreck a bridge and the other side of the case is the threatening shortage of food in the fighting countries. Federal officers and detectives who had installed a dictaphone in a hotel room where he was conspiring with a government secret service agent from Memphis, heard him assure the agent that, being a deacon in church and having boosted the sale of Liberty loan bonds in his community, he, Clark, would never be suspected of wrongdoing.

Counsel for Clark and relatives and friends say he was never near the Kingsport plant and is suffering from insanity.

Officers charge he once attempted to blow up the Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore.

The secret service agent says Clark declared he had a confederate in the Kingsport plant and, with the knowledge supplied by the explosives company, could install time bombs in the plant, lay wires out a safe distance from the confederate, and, upon a signal from the pal, which he would catch with a pair of spyglasses, touch a button and blow up the works. The government agent had won the confidence of Clark and enticed him into the trap at the hotel.

SAVES ROLL BY PREMONITION

Kansas City Woman Returns for $2,500 and Finds a Burglar in the House.

Kansas City.—A premonition saved just $2,500 for Mrs. Lucile Twombly.

Mrs. Twombly is a widow and recently received the money from her husband's life insurance. She has been carrying the money in her pocketbook, which she left on her dressing table when she started for the grocery store.

A premonition caused her to go back and get the money, however, after she had nearly reached the store. She then went to the store and when she returned she found a man ransacking the sideboard in her dining room. His back was toward her and he walked into the bedroom without seeing her enter.

She thought it was a young man robbing, and said:

"You thought you would fool me, didn't you, Bert?"

"Bert" turned and dived under the bed. Mrs. Twombly made a hurried exit and called the police. The thief had escaped, taking a pair of portières with him, but Mrs. Twombly had her money, and she told the police she was going immediately to put it in the bank.

MOON HIDES.

"What's the matter?" asked the Earth.

"I'm tired," said the Moon.

"Tired?" asked the Earth. "Why are you tired, Mr. Moon? Have you been going to too many parties?"

"To tell you the truth," said the Moon, "I have. I have been shining so brightly and giving light for so many of the Fairies' spring balls that I am really quite tired. And I feel a little shy. I would like to hide for awhile."

"Where are you thinking of hiding?" asked the Earth.

"Behind your shadow," said the Moon.

"All right," said the Earth. "My shadow is always ready for you to hide behind when you want it. But it is not often you care to hide. Sometimes, of course, you don't care to come up in the sky at all—when it is rainy and when you are taking a rest, or off on holiday, but it is seldom you care to hide behind my shadow in the middle of the night."

"You don't mind, do you?" asked the Moon.

"I'm highly flattered," said the Earth. "It is a great honor. Lots of people come out and look at us both at such times. For people call it an Eclipse."

"I know they do," said the Moon. "Instead of saying we are playing hide-and-go-seek as they say when children hide, they say:

"There will be an Eclipse tonight."

"That shows how much they think of us," said the Earth. "They give us a grand name."

"I suppose that must be their reason," said the Moon.

During this talk the Moon was being covered ever so slowly by a great black cloud which was the Earth's shadow.

"How is my shawl tonight?" asked the Earth.

"It makes a beautiful shadow," said the Moon.

And the shawl wound itself around the Moon until there was no moon to be seen.

"It's a total Eclipse," said the people.

"What do they mean by that?" asked the Moon. "You are so wise, old Earth, that you know everything. You know how the flowers grow and how the little seeds become blossoms. Tell me what they mean by a total Eclipse."

"They mean," said the Earth, "that there is no Moon to be seen at all."

"My! And they use words like that—total Eclipse—just to say that the Moon can't be seen. Well, well, well, they do pay me a great compliment."

The Moon talked to the Earth for a long time and Earth's shawl or shadow kept the moon from sight for several hours. There were lots of things for the moon to do, but for the time being he did want to rest. And somehow he felt like a game of hide-and-go-seek, for he was shy that evening, quite shy.

Before long the Moon grew a little restless. "I think I must be leaving," he said.

"Sorry to see you go," said the Earth. "You call on me so seldom. Your visits are so rare."

"Oh," laughed the Moon, "you are so nice to me, but where did you pick up that last word? Was it running around down on the earth and you heard it as it walked over you?"

"Words don't run-around," said the Earth, "but the people who use them do. That word means that your visits are so few. I'd like to see you often."

"Thank you," said the Moon. "Perhaps because I come only now and again it is better, for you see it is more of a treat."

"Maybe that is so," said the Earth. "I always enjoy looking at you from afar, but I do thoroughly enjoy your calls."

"Then I'll come again," said the Moon.

"That's good," said the Earth. And as the Moon began to show its light again, and as the shadow stopped hiding it, the people said:

"The Eclipse is over. The Moon is shining brightly once more."

The Fairies were playing when the Moon was back, peeping out from behind a tall tree. "I've been playing hide-and-go-seek," he said.

"Oh, what fun," said the Fairies.

"But you must call it an Eclipse," said the Moon, as he began to tell his story of his visit back of the Earth's best shawl.

German Vegetable Crop

Proving Disappointment

Amsterdam, Aug. 31.—The frater correspondent of the Handelsblad reports that the vegetable crop in Germany is a great disappointment. A hurricane on Sunday last did great damage in the whole of western Germany. Many buildings were destroyed, thousands of trees were uprooted, field and garden produce everywhere suffered enormously; cereal crops were beaten down and destroyed and fruit trees were torn up.

From the same source it is said that issuance of the peace note was preceded by unofficial conversations with prominent Germans in an endeavor to obtain Germany's consent to provisions for restoration of invaded territories.

Roe Patterson says, It doesn't matter whether you have a Greek or a Roman or a pig nose, if you keep it out of other people's business, they will be sure to admire it.

Effie Baker says, The difference between a drunk man and a gun, is that you can't say that you didn't know that the man was loaded.

George Loyd says, It is possible to give a girl a bad scare after she has been eating onions, but it is impossible to take her breath.

New York, Sept. 5.—The injuries sustained by Frederick Trubee Davison, son of Henry P. Davison, chairman of the American Red Cross war council, when he fell 400 feet into the water while making a hydroaeroplane flight last Saturday, are more serious than at first thought according to a statement issued today by a member of his family.

It was said that an injury to the spine makes it probable that it will be at least a year before he fully recovers.

Davison was making the flight in an attempt to qualify as a pilot in the United States aviation corps.

Secret Passage Found.

Rome, Sept. 5.—A secret subterranean passage has been discovered between the Hotel Eden which, up to Italy's entrance into the war was under German ownership, and the villa Roger, formerly occupied by Prince von Buelow, the former German imperial chancellor.

It is believed that the passage was used to enable certain persons to visit the prince secretly. Prince von Buelow was in Rome throughout the first stage of the war and remained there until shortly before Italy's entrance into the war as the Kaiser's special emissary. He was entrusted with the task of keeping

Corn Price To Bid

Stock Feeding Asked.

At a meeting recently between fifty of the commission men at the Chicago Stock yards and E. C. Lassater, Food Dictator Hoover's live stock representative, a resolution was introduced by one of the commission men which urged that the government fix a minimum price of 75 cents and a maximum price of $1 on corn at primary points to encourage live stock feeding this year. The resolution pointed out the fact that much range cattle is being sent to the shambles which could be saved for corn belt farms if the farmers were assured of corn to feed them at a reasonable price.

Mr. L. Sater stated that while the government was assuring manufacturers of profits in wartime, he saw no reason why similar action should not be taken toward the farmers.—Chicago Drovers Journal & Livestock World.

Has Run Since Nov. 1916.

Stockholm, Sept. 5.—It is claimed that an approach toward the solution of perpetual motion has been made by Theodor Diederichs of Karlsund and that a clock of his invention has been running continuously without other agency than varying atmospheric pressures since November 1916.

His invention consists of a chain of communicating boxes with elastic sides, containing air at a pressure of 757 millimeters at a temperature of plus 18 Celsius. It is asserted that an extreme movement of 28 centimeters, nearly ten inches can be produced by extremes of atmospheric pressure, and that this movement is communicated to the clock's works.

CAT, DOG AND HEN.

"A cat, a dog and a hen," said Daddy, "were sitting on the piazza of a large house."

"Along came another cat. 'Meow-meow,' she said. 'Would you like to have me call on you? Is that dog polite?' she added in a whisper to the cat on the doorstep."

"Very polite," said the cat. And the dog wagged his tail, which meant, Thank you.'

"Then I think I'll stay a while," said the cat. "I would like a sun bath, for it's pretty chilly in the cold wind. Why are you all sitting outside instead of staying in the house? Of course I suppose Mrs. Hen doesn't belong in this house. She has a house of her own, with the other hen and chickens."

"Yes, she has her own house," said the cat at the doorstep, "but she is here to help guard."

"Why do you guard the door?" asked the visitor cat.

"Because the family was away on a visit. They will be gone all day, and we are guarding the house. The family are so nice and kind to us that we wanted to see that no unwelcome callers got in. When they get home

"Is That Dog Polite?"
they will reward us by good supper. And around at the back of the house we have hidden some food in case we get hungry during the day. You see the dog brought a bone here to play with."

"Well," said the visiting cat, "who are you trying to keep away?"

"I am going to keep away all mice," said the cat.

"Are they apt to call?" asked the visitor cat. "I might like to help you keep some of them away myself."

"The dog laughed and the hen cackled at this, but the visitor cat went on talking. 'Tell me some more,' she said.

"The dog will keep away tramps, and the hen will eat up all worms."

"But do mice and worms call on the family?" asked the visitor cat.

"I have never known them to," the cat on the doorstep answered, "but then we can never be sure when they might begin. It's best to be sure that they don't get in."

"I see," said the visitor cat. "You're having a good time while looking after the house."

"Oh yes," said the cat on the doorstep. "We are having a very good time. Why should we be unhappy and miserable?"

"There is no reason at all why you should be," said the visitor cat. "And even the sun is obliging."

"Yes, the sun is most kind. He couldn't bear to see us here in the cold without his strong rays to keep us warm."

"So the visitor cat sat down too, and chatted with the cat, the dog and the hen."

"I would like to know," said the dog, "why your eyes are so different at different times?"

"Whatever do you mean?" asked the visitor cat.

"Sometimes I've seen them look big and sometimes rather small."

"Ah, now I understand," said the visitor cat. "When we are in a dark closet looking for mice our eyes become larger. It's partly the effect that the darkness has on our eyes and partly because we're looking forward to finding mice. Of course Growups think it's simply because of the dark closet—but it's partly because of the secret I've told you."

"Just then a shrill whistle was heard through the stillness. And then arose a cloud of smoke from the train, and animals didn't know that it meant that their family, who had been away at a neighboring place for the day, were on their way home."

"But before long they saw them walking along the road toward the house."

"I must be going," said the visitor cat. "They might shoot me away."

"Oh no," said the cat on the doorstep, "do stay for supper. We have an especially good one when the family have been away. They're afraid we have been lonely."

"Sure enough the visitor cat stayed to supper, and they certainly enjoyed a feast."

Universal Military Service in Line With All the Nation's Traditions

By CHARLES J. BONAPARTE, Former Attorney General of United States

It is often asserted, and yet more frequently assumed, in the discussion of current events, that compulsory military service is something new and unheard of in the United States; something more or less at variance with the traditions of our early national life and with the practice and counsel of our country's fathers. This is not merely untrue; it is precisely the reverse of the truth.

Those who now advocate the enrollment as soldiers and sailors of all our citizens fit to bear arms are urging a return to principles universally accepted and applied during the first fifty years of our national history, as well as in our entire colonial period, and fully sanctioned by laws in force today and which have been in force, in substantially their present form, from the very foundation of our government.

An American mother who says she didn't raise her little boy to be a soldier in the day of the nation's need, if she knows her country's past history and her country's present laws, must know also that she says, in effect, she didn't raise him to be an American citizen, in the full and honorable sense of the word; that she has taught him to shirk a part of the duties of a citizen, and precisely that part of those duties which all mankind have ever deemed it most disastrous to the state and most shameful and dishonorable to the man himself that he should shirk.

Hoarding and Indiscriminate Parsimony Long Way From Real Thrift

By S. W. STRAUS
President of American Society for Thrift

"It is not the duty of thrift nor the duty of men to acquire millions. Hoarding millions is avarice, not thrift."

This bit of philosophy, uttered some time ago by Andrew Carnegie, can well be applied to American life at the present time. Lack of a proper understanding of thrift has been responsible for a great deal of harm America recently.

This has been due to false economy, but people are rapidly getting around to the viewpoint that hoarding and indiscriminate parsimony is a long way from real thrift.

What we all must learn is to eliminate waste. There is a great deal between waste and sensible spending. The most reprehensible waste, of course, at the present time is in the matter of food. Houston has said that if only a single ounce of edible meat is allowed to spoil or to be thrown away in each of the slogan, "Save a little of land and the thousands of people need sacrifice."

It would over 1,300,000 pounds of material would be wasted

On the other hand, we say,

"Save an ounce of food a day."

Let every American home do this a little too much. Outward the solution of our food problem, health,

a long way

Risk of Fighting Men

Not as Great as Imagined

Washington, Sept. 3.—That the risk of the fighting man is not nearly so great as is popularly imagined is the belief of Marine Corps officials here who have compiled statistics covering the Allied losses in the war.

A careful estimate shows that only one man in fifteen is killed, and one out of five hundred loses a limb. Recent reports from French and British hospitals show that about 95 per cent recover from wounds, while about 90 per cent are able to return to the firing lines.

While the Marine Corps officials hold unbiased views in regard to the expected casualties among their own troops in France, it is pointed out that the soldiers of the sea recently engaged in warfare in Italy suffered less than one per cent losses. These were sustained while covering a wide terrain fighting from house to house.

DEATHS

Last Friday evening, Aug. 31st, at 8 o'clock, Wesley Watson, of the Hebron neighborhood, passed to his reward. He was in bad health for a number of years and death, which has no terror for such men as he, came as a relief to his sufferings.

Mr. Watson was born in Harrison county, Indiana, on July 7th, 1828, and was therefore in his 90th year. He with his family moved to Crittenden county in 1880 and he spent most of the time since then, in the community in which he died.

He was married twice, and was the father of fifteen children, six of whom survive. His second wife, who was Mrs. Mary J. Frakes, and to whom he was married on July 17th, 1870, survives him.

Mr. Watson professed faith in Christ at an early age and joined the United Brethren church. Soon after his second marriage, he, with his wife joined the Methodist church. He was the oldest member of the church at Hebron and was a trustee of the church from the time of its organization until his death.

Mr. Watson was a man of splendid Christian character. He was a good neighbor, a loving father and a kind husband. His good wife and faithful children who have ministered to him so tenderly during his years of affliction, will be sad without him but they will be able to rejoice in the thought that he is in that Home, eternal in the Heavens, where pain and suffering are unknown and where happiness and joy reign supreme.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Flannery, Saturday evening at 2 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The funeral was conducted by his pastor, Rev. Crow, after which the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Dunn's Springs.

We have a beautiful three-room new frame building which is well equipped with patent desks, charts, etc. I think Oklahoma is a fine place for teachers. Not enough sickness for doctors.

We have three grades of certificates for the teachers. A first grade is good anywhere in the State for four years and subject to renewal for four years. It covers twenty-one branches.

Second grade is good for two years and in the adjoining counties, subject to renewal two more years.

Third grade, good for one year and renewal one year, only good in the county issuing same.

Wages are good at all works; everything has the war price here.

Would say more but for fear this is lost in the waste basket, I will conclude with kindest regards to all of my Kentucky pupils, school boards, relatives and friends.

Your humble servant and friend,

L. F. Moore, M. D.
